

Derivatives and Structured Products

When it comes to derivatives and structured products, you deal with considerable and complex legal, regulatory, and tax implications. Especially in cross-border contexts.

Our lawyers advise clients across the world on a complete range of derivative and structured product transactions. Across all asset classes and globally, we provide an integrated approach. Major financial institutions, funds, government-sponsored entities, asset managers, and commercial end-users turn to us for competitive, knowledge based services including setting up platforms and implementing regulatory requirements such as EMIR and Dodd Frank.

Anywhere you need us, we are there. With pragmatic advice in even the most complex and nuanced deals.

Our team has experience in the following areas:

- Derivatives
- Structured products
- Regulatory reform
- Stress, distress, and insolvency
