

Greg Junge

Partner

Washington, D.C.

Biography

Greg Junge has vast experience representing energy companies in regulatory and litigation matters. His practice focuses primarily on natural gas regulation. Greg provides comprehensive representation to interstate natural gas pipelines before the U.S. Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) and in appellate litigation in federal courts.

Greg represents pipeline clients in rate case litigation under both Section 4 and Section 5 of the Natural Gas Act (NGA), and in certificate and abandonment proceedings under Section 7 of the NGA. Greg also provides legal counseling on various matters involving natural gas, including issues related to the intersection of energy and environmental regulation.

Prior to joining the firm, Greg assisted pipelines, local distribution companies, electric marketers, and electric utilities on various regulatory, transactional, and administrative litigation matters. He also has experience representing clients in FERC enforcement and audit matters and in obtaining FERC authorization for the siting and construction of liquefied natural gas (LNG) facilities.

Greg is a contributing author of the AGA FERC Manual: A Guide for Local Distribution Companies, distributed by the American Gas Association (AGA). Before law
