

Adrienne Gittens

Senior Associate

Philadelphia

Biography

Adrienne Gittens helps clients navigate complex commercial litigation and provides efficient results.

Adrienne draws on her diverse litigation experience with businesses at all stages of development, from start-ups to Fortune 500 companies, to distill the complex realities of litigation into simple concepts and practical solutions.

Adrienne has counseled clients through class actions and complex business disputes, utilizing her extensive experience to provide advice, analysis, and advocacy. She approaches disputes as business problems to be solved: weighing risks and identifying opportunities to best meet client needs. When litigation becomes necessary, Adrienne seeks favorable outcomes at the earliest possible stage.

In addition to her general litigation work, Adrienne counsels health information technology companies, both large and small, through the burgeoning legal framework applicable to the health and technological industries. Armed with an acute understanding of the Office of the National Coordinator's regulatory requirements, and sensitivity to the particular demands of health technology development, Adrienne provides practical legal guidance.
