

Company Formation

Aligning initial decisions around form, location, and efficiency with your business strategy is critical to the ultimate success of a business.

The lawyers at Hogan Lovells guide you on what type of entity is best, where to incorporate, and on complex tax and other legal issues. And of course, on all areas of initial incorporation and government filings.

Our lawyers around the world help you navigate rules and regulations across multiple jurisdictions and offer practical advice to help you make the best decisions. With lawyers focused on collaboration and clarity of communication, we streamline the business formation process. You benefit from the efficiency of working with lawyers who have formed business entities around the world. We know your industry, and we know your goals. Together, we help set you up for success.
