

Jo Broadbent

Counsel Knowledge Lawyer
London

Biography

Jo Broadbent is counsel and a professional support lawyer in the Hogan Lovells' employment team.

In addition to keeping clients and the team up to date with legal developments, she has extensive experience of developing and presenting internal and external client training courses and workshops.

She recently presented a webinar on workplace bullying and harassment for a leading provider of employment law training.

Jo is a co-author of the book 'Informing and Consulting Employees: the New Law' and frequently writes articles for the HR and legal press.

Latest thinking and events

- Press Releases
 - Glaring gaps in equality legislation leave Parliament “above the law” on sexual harassment
- Hogan Lovells Publications
 - Employment News: agency workers, tribunals
- Hogan Lovells Publications
 - Employment News: Brexit; redundancy; webinar
- Webinar
 - COVID-19: the impact on employment tribunal litigation in the UK

Phone

+44 20 7296 2026

Fax

+44 20 7296 2001

Email

jo.broadbent@hoganlovells.com

Languages

English

Practices

Employment

Industries

Energy and Natural Resources
Financial Institutions

Areas of focus

Employment

- Published Works
 - Getting the Deal Through: Luxury & Fashion 2020
- Hogan Lovells Publications
 - The UK's revised Job Retention Scheme

Education and admissions

Education

B.A. (Hons), University of Oxford, St John's College

Memberships

Member, Employment Lawyers Association

Member, Professional Support Lawyers Network

Accolades

"Clients praise Jo as "technically adept but also very experienced – she is innovative and prepared to think outside of the box to make deals work."

Chambers UK, 2018

"Jo Robinson has a growing reputation for her work with both banks and alternative lenders in complex leveraged acquisitions, LBOs and unitranche matters."

Chambers UK, 2018
