

Watch: Is China isolated on data privacy?

23 September 2019

China's approach to data protection regulation can often mystify: a history of lax enforcement, with a move, of late, towards tough data protection standards that threaten data localization and borrow heavily from the GDPR.

But it goes too far to say that China is isolated on privacy. Other jurisdictions in the Asia-Pacific region are drawing inspiration from China's moves.

Contacts

Mark
Parsons

Partner

> Read the full article online