

Infrastructure investment is Republicans' 2018 priority

16 January 2018

Government Relations Alert

Congress has returned from the holiday recess with renewed focus on passing a major infrastructure package in 2018. Passage of a massive tax reform bill punctuated the president's first year in office with a major victory, and he and his congressional backers aim to capitalize on that momentum by moving forward aggressively on a major infrastructure package in what could be a difficult election year for congressional Republicans.

Read More: Infrastructure Investment Is Republicans' 2018 Priority

Contacts

Michael J.
Bell

Partner

> Read the full article online