

Transportation, Utilities, and Public Safety

Technology has strengthened networks and made our response to public safety crises more efficient and effective. But integrating this advanced technology raises complex legal issues.

The lawyers at Hogan Lovells help you navigate issues around increasing interoperability, improving E911 location accuracy, and addressing other public safety policy issues. And the First Responder Network Authority (FirstNet).

We've worked alongside public safety entities looking to deploy broadband technologies and optimize their spectrum use. And provided businesses with support regarding those networks and infrastructure matters.

The Hogan Lovells team can help you optimize your public safety strategy so you can cover all of your bases.
