

Julia Marlow

Counsel

London

Biography

Julia has 10 years' experience advising clients on government decisions, policy, regulation and legislation. She works with clients from both the public and the private sectors on stages of the government's decision-making process from initial development all the way through to a judicial review challenge before the court. Julia's clients operate in a range of industries, including energy, financial services, pharmaceuticals, telecoms and transport. Whether she is assisting clients in shaping policy or regulations that affect their business, or is advising public bodies on sound decision-making, Julia's goal is to achieve her client's objectives in the most straightforward way possible.

That often means setting up a constructive dialogue between businesses and government at an early stage in the decision-making process, when policies are still being formulated and the possible impact of a decision is still being assessed. However, when litigation is the best available means to achieve a client's aims, Julia - who is a qualified solicitor advocate - is able to draw on her experience of acting for clients in high-profile and complex judicial review challenges.

While at Hogan Lovells, Julia has been on a secondment to the legal team at Ofgem, the UK energy regulator. During that time, she advised Ofgem on the implementation of a new government scheme to
