

Water

We advise on the most complex projects in a sector that is heavily regulated, jurisdiction specific, and politically sensitive. Our sector and jurisdiction knowledge cuts straight to the relevant issues in any water project or investment.

We represent sponsors and investors, governments, and lenders on all aspects of water projects and investments globally including regulatory and procurement advice, concessions, IWPs, and project financing across all water sectors including desalination, wastewater, bulk water, and water treatment projects.

This broad background affords us first-hand recent experience on the issues facing our clients, who trust us to steer them through the complexities of water law with strategic business and cultural advice. We know how to successfully conclude complicated projects in developing legal environments and have the know-how necessary to develop and negotiate risk mitigation strategies.
